Historical Background

The Deans' Office for Advising and Support (DOAS), formerly known as the Office of the Dean of Studies, provides academic advising to Barnard students. The office is overseen by the Dean for Academic Planning and Class Advising, formerly known as the Dean of Studies. DOAS also includes four Class Deans who advise students on how to register for courses, manage their plan of study, meet academic deadlines, and fulfill major and minor requirements during each year of their undergraduate career. Other major responsibilities of the DOAS include awarding academic honors such as placement on the Dean's List; overseeing the Honor Board, which enforces the Barnard Honor Code; managing academic coaching and peer tutoring programs; and offering support for transfer students and students who take a leave of absence.

A system of providing specialized academic advising to each undergraduate class began taking shape in the early 1920s (Barnard Bulletin, May 4, 1923). At this time, the Committee on Instruction formed a subcommittee called the Committee on Student Programs to develop administrative structures for advising undergraduates, particularly first- and second-year students, on how to build their plan of academic study.

In April 1955, Helen P. Bailey, a professor of French at Barnard, was appointed as the first Dean of Studies (Barnard Bulletin, April 25, 1955). During this time, advising efforts targeted first-year students. The Dean of Studies remained in close contact with faculty committees, especially the Committee on Instruction and Curriculum Review Committee.

In 1966-67, Bailey was succeeded by Dr. Barbara Schmitter, a professor of psychology at Barnard. While the Dean of Studies position was primarily concerned with academic advising, Dean Schmitter often served on committees and weighed in on issues related to financial aid (Barnard Bulletin, March 5, 1969), substance use on campus (Barnard Bulletin, November 18, 1970), coeducation, student housing, and other matters related to student life (Barnard Bulletin, April 4, 1977). Perhaps because of Schmitter's involvement in broader campus issues, in 1977 Schmitter was appointed as Vice President of Student Affairs, in addition to her role as Dean of Studies. At this time, Schmitter oversaw financial aid, central records, the registrar, the career and placement offices, and health services in addition to the Dean of Studies office (Barnard Bulletin, September 1, 1977). Thus, the lines distinguishing the responsibilities and oversight of the Dean of Studies from other administrative positions were often blurred and changed depending on the needs and demands of students and faculty.

The current structure of the DOAS began to solidify in 1993 when Dorothy Denburg was appointed Barnard's first Dean of the College, which replaced the Vice President and Dean of Student Affairs position formerly held by Dr. Schmitter. At this time, the Office of the Dean of Studies was restructured around the Dean of Studies and four permanent Class Dean positions for each year of a four-year undergraduate program of study.

Around 2020-21, amidst other changes in Barnard's administrative structure initiated by Dean of the College Leslie Grinage, the Office of the Dean of Studies was renamed to the Deans'

Office for Advising and Support, and the Dean of Studies position was renamed the Dean for Academic Planning and Class Advising.

Vilma Bornemann appointed as Dean of Studies 1983: Honor Board established 1993: Dr. Barbara Schmitter retires and her position of Vice President and Dean of Student Affairs is superseded by a new position: Dean of the College. ## Collection Scope and Content Summary

This collection includes materials created by the Dean for Academic Planning and Advising and other Barnard administrative staff in the Deans' Office for Advising and Support while developing structures and policies for providing academic advising to Barnard undergraduates. Materials generated through the Deans' Office's regular operations and collaborations with Barnard faculty and other administrative offices include correspondence, memos, and meeting agendas that illustrate discussions about policy changes, best practices, and other issues related to academic advising and student life. A significant portion of the correspondence was created by Dr. Barbara Schmitter during her tenures as Dean of Studies from 1966-82 and as Vice President and Dean of Student Affairs from 1982-93. The Deans' Office also conducted surveys, collected data, and produced reports on students' course enrollment and academic interests, which are also present in the collection. The collection also includes guides and brochures that were distributed to Barnard students to inform them about how to participate in academic advising and counseling services provided or supported by the Deans' Office. The collection also includes a number of interviews with Black, Latine, Muslim, and Asian Barnard students and alumni that were conducted by Barnard administration for a video project that was intended to train administrators, staff, and faculty to better understand and serve students of color.

Collection Arrangement

The collection is arranged into three series. Series 1, Internal communications, contains correspondence and documentation exchanged between the Deans' Office of Advising and Support and Barnard administrators, faculty, and committees. A large amount of these materials were produced by Barbara Schmitter during her tenure as Dean of Studies; materials produced by Schmitter are arranged chronologically in Subseries 1.1, Barbara Schmitter correspondence. All other materials in Series 1 that were not created by Schmitter are arranged by type: memos and correspondence; surveys and reports; and guides to academic advising.

Series 2, Publications, contains brochures, guides, and pamphlets that are arranged chronologically.

Series 3, Interviews with students and alumni of color, contains audiovisual materials that are arranged according to the order in which the processing archivist received and inventoried them.

Acquisition Information

This collection was initially created from an acquisition of materials that were transferred from the Office of the Dean of the College to the Barnard Archives in 2013. Additional materials were transferred from the Office of the Provost to the archives in 2014. Additional materials were transferred from Alumnae Relations (formerly known as Alumnae Affairs) to the archives in 2015. Additional materials were transferred from the President's Office to the archives in 2017.

A large accrual of materials were transferred by archives staff from a shared storage area used by many Barnard College administrative offices in June 2024. This large accrual prompted archivists to re-process the entire collection.

Publication Rights

Permission to publish material from the collection must be requested from the Barnard College Archives. The Barnard College Archives approves permission to publish that which it physically owns; the responsibility to secure copyright permission rests with the patron.

Access

This collection contains student materials that are protected by the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) and are restricted for 75 years from the date of creation. Restricted materials have been separated and labeled.

Processing History

A minimal level of processing was conducted on the collection sometime prior to 2024. A large accrual of audiovisual materials in June 2024 prompted archivists to re-process the entire collection to improve researcher access. Katelyn Landry, an Archives Graduate Fellow for the 2024-2025 academic year, re-processed the collection and wrote the finding aid.

Katelyn Landry renamed the collection from "Dean of Studies" to the "Deans' Office for Advising and Support Records" to reflect the office's current name. She rearranged materials into series and subseries, deaccessioned materials that were not created or utilized by the Deans' Office for Advising and Support, as well as excessive duplicate copies of materials. She also conducted an item-level survey of Subseries 1.1, Barbara Schmitter correspondence, to identify and restrict student educational materials that are protected by the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act.

Internal communications, 1959-2013

Series Scope and Content Summary

Series 1 contains correspondence, memorandums, surveys, reports, and guides generated by the Dean for Academic Planning and Advising and other Barnard administrative staff in the Deans' Office for Advising and Support. These materials represent regular communication and collaboration with Barnard administration and faculty about academic advising, curriculum, and student life. The series also includes guides to academic advising that illustrate how faculty members were trained to serve as academic advisers for students.

Barbara Schmitter correspondence, 1975-1993

Creator: Schmitter, Barbara

Subseries Scope and Content Summary

Subseries 1.1 comprises memorandums, correspondence, meeting minutes, surveys, and reports created by Barbara Schmitter during her tenure as Dean of Studies from 1966-82 and as Vice President and Dean of Student Affairs from 1982-93. Schmitter frequently corresponded with students and students' family members who expressed concern about the student's enrollment, coursework, grades, study abroad, financial aid, and residential housing. Schmitter often wrote letters of support and recommendation for Barnard employees and students; however, formal letters of recommendation written on behalf of students applying to graduate programs or employment are restricted for 75 years from the date of writing, according to the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA).

Schmitter also frequently corresponded with faculty members, faculty committees, and administrators about changes in curriculum, enrollment requirements and logistics, academic awards and scholarship prizes, grading policies, and the academic advising structure. In addition to memorandums and correspondence regarding these topics, Schmitter also produced surveys of students, such as surveys of course enrollment, major/minor declarations, institutional financial assistance, and other aspects of student life.

Schmitter was closely involved with campus-wide issues that were not necessarily related to academics, particularly student grievances regarding residential housing, as well as matters related to the academic and emotional wellbeing of students of color and administrative responses to student protests. Aside from these major features of the Schmitter correspondence, this subseries also contains correspondence related to alum relations, hiring, inter-institutional collaborations, and other topics.

Interviews with students and alumni of color, circa 1990s-2000s, undated

Series Scope and Content Summary

Series 3 comprises 124 audiocassettes, video tapes, and floppy discs that contain recorded interviews with Black, Latine, Asian, and Muslim Barnard students and alumni. These interviews were conducted in the 1990s for a series of promotional and educational videotapes. The project was initiated by Dorothy Denburg, Dean of the College, who sought to use the videos "to educate students, faculty, and staff about the experiences of students of color" (Barnard Magazine, Spring 2005). Several faculty members and administrators collaborated on the project, including Vivian Taylor, Associate Dean of Studies, and Christina Kuan Tsu, Assistant Dean of Studies. This series includes audio and video of the full uncut interviews with students and alumni of color, as well as the final edited videos that were produced and distributed. Additionally, typed transcripts for the interviews with Latine students are available. The final videotapes include "About Face," which highlights Asian students' experiences; "Indivisible," which highlights Black students' experiences; and "Óyeme (Hear Me)," which highlights Latine students' experiences. Interviews were conducted with Muslim students; however, a final video was never produced.

A small amount of materials in this series are unrelated to the interview projects or their contents are unknown.
