Scope and Content

The General Manuscript Collection is an artificial collection of correspondence, diaries, lecture notes, class work, essays, administrative documents, minutes, and other documents collected by the Rare Book & Manuscript Library. Single items or very small collections are generally classified as part of the general manuscript collection rather than assigned an individual manuscript number. Additionally, small additions to existing RBML manuscript collections may be classified as part of the General Manuscript Collection.

Haber, Robert A. To [?], March or April 1962 July 25,      box 81      folder 22
 March or April 1962

Scope and Contents

Extremely early, foundational document of the SDS, announcing the group's first National Convention at Port Huron, Michigan in June of 1962. Undated, but circa March or April, 1962. The recipient is unknown, but SDS Chairman Robert Alan ("Al") Haber presumably sent such invitations to university students around the country who had been previously active in leftist political causes. The prospectus, titled What is the S.D.S.?, lays out a 5-part platform -- Civil Rights, Peace, Higher Education, Student Organization, and National Politics -- which would be reflected in the group's formal manifesto, The Port Huron Statement, some months later. The text of the prospectus is unsigned, but smacks strongly of the declarative, cadenced prose used by Tom Hayden in his final draft of the Statement. The convention Program provides an outline of daily sessions, concluding with "debate, amendments, and voting" on the Manifesto, then states: "The manifesto draft will be mailed after June 1 to registrants and those requesting it. Copies of other convention papers will be mailed out or available at Port Huron." This is possibly the earliest printed reference to The Port Huron Statement, the definitive political manifesto of the post-War era;

it is also a tantalizing bit of evidence that early, unrecorded pre-publication drafts of the Statement may have been issued in some quantity prior to the convention. Neither letter, nor Program, nor Prospectus located in OCLC. Mimeographed form letter, extending an invitation to the first SDS National Convention, June 11-15, 1962. Signed in blue ink by SDS Chairman Robert A. Haber. Together with a one-page Convention Program, and a 5-pp prospectus titled "What is the S.D.S.?" (both mimeographed).

Landon, Laetitia Elizabeth, "L.E.L." ALS to Dr. William] C[ooke] Taylor, 28 Upper Berkeley St West, Connaught Square, March 1, 1837 box 80 folder 10

Scope and Contents

Landon writes to Taylor, the Irish author and journalist, to canvass support for her brother Whittington Landon, 'a candidate to the situation of secretary to the Literary Fund'. She asks of Taylor, 'May I entreat your favour and vote -1 hope in a few days to obtain an introduction - till then may I rely on your kindness'. She signs the request, 'Very respectfully your obliged L.E. Landon'. Landon canvassed a number of noteworthy figures on her brother's behalf, including Sir Francis Egerton, Robert Peel, Benjamin Disraeli, and through him Lord Ellenborough. Her appeals had the desired effect, as Whittington Landon assumed the position of secretary of the Literary Fund in April 1837. He would remain in the post for two years, at which time he was replaced by the candidate he had earlier defeated, Octavian Blewett. Blewett held the post until 1884.
