Historical Note

In 1867, the Trustees gave a student-led baseball team a $200 grant to purchase equipment and with that, Columbia went on to defeat NYU and City Colloege, but lose to Yale and Princeton, in its first season of intercollegiate athletics. In 1870, Columbia played its first football game, only the fourth intercollegiate contest in the history of the sport, on November 12, 1870. Columbia lost to Rutgers by a score of 6-3. In 1873 in its first outing, Columbia crew placed fourth in a field of thirteen, but, the very following year, they won the first regatta of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association. Track fielded its first team in 1876. Early sporting events such as these were both student-run and student- and alumni-financed. There were numerous alumni-controlled organizations in charge (e.g, Columbia College Athletic Union (CCAU) and later the Columbia University Athletic Association (CUAA), and some for separate sports (e.g. Columbia University Football Association).

In 1901, the University Council passed a resolution to appoint a University Committee of Student Organizations to supervise and control all student organizations, athletic and other. And so, the faculty were put in control of athletics at Columbia, but alumni remained involved. Each team had a graduate manager. It was in this period, that the Columbia Lion was adopted as a sports symbol (1910).

In 1931, the University Trustees took control over intercollegiate athletics when the Athletic Association's debt exceeded $200,000. The Trustees argued that athletics should be considered a student activity, conducted by the University for the benefit of students. The takeover also coincided with the glory days of Lou Little's football teams. Between 1931 and 1934, Columbia won 30 games, tied 2 and lost 4, and won the 1934 Rose Bowl.

Ralph J. Furey, who had been appointed Director of Athletics in 1943, was the first to be appointed Director of Physical Education and Athletics in 1946. Centralizing control under one department allowed administrators to enhance the educational value of the physical education curriculum. This joint arrangement has been in place since.

Ralph J. Furey (1946-1968); Kenneth G. Germann (1967-1973); Alvin Paul (1974-1991); John A. Reeves (1991-2004); Dianne Murphy (2004-2015); Peter E. Pilling (2015-present).

Collection Inventory

Series I: Rosters and Statistics, 1911-2006

Scope and Contents

This series contains the official game records for intercollegiate contests. Organized by sport and by season, the records include dates, locations, opponents, rosters, and final scores. The bulk of the records document games from the 1940s to 1980s.

Subseries I.1: Pink Sheets, 1911-1986

Scope and Contents

"Pink sheets" is the term used to describe the pink "List of Contestants or Performers and Substitutes." These sheets were completed for all athletic contests in which contestants or performers were to be absent from lectures or laboratories. They include date, venue, sport, final score and lists of players, non-players and managers, who were excused from class. There are no pink sheets for 1941-1942.

Subseries I.2: Sports Binders, 1945-1983

Scope and Contents

"Sports Binders" is the term used for the collected information about each intercollegiate athletic team, originally kept in binders and organized by season. This may include the season's record, event programs, press releases, stats, newspaper clippings and scoresheets for each contest. There is no Fall 1959 binder. For football, there is often a second "binder" of football game programs, both home and away. For additional programs, see Subseries II.3: Programs.

Series II: Publicity, 1929-2014

Scope and Contents

This series contains the materials produced by the Office of Sports Information (later, Athletics Communications). It includes the Varsity "C" newsletter, Lines on Lions, media guides, game programs, press releases and event records, such as the annual Varsity "C" Dinner.

Subseries II.1: Lines on Lions, 1946-2005

Scope and Contents

"Lines on Lions" was the newsletter published by the Varsity "C" Club to inform former student-athletes, family and friends of the athletic teams about the latest news. The publication schedule varied throughout its run: as few as 3 and up to 12 issues per academic year. In addition to team news, the newsletter includes information about the hiring of coaches and trainers, the athletic facilities, events of the Varsity "C" Club and interviews with campus figures.

Series III: Biographical Files, 1920s-2000s

Scope and Contents

This series contains the "coaches' files," which are biographical files on not just coaches and trainers but also Columbia administrators, former student-athletes and other friends of Columbia Athletics. The files start with figures from the 1920s up to the 2000s. A file may include photos, negatives, slides, press releases, coaching questionnaires, resumes, newspaper clippings, and memorial service programs.

Series IV: Athletic Information Cards, 1940s-1990s

Scope and Contents

This series contains four sets of index cards with student-athlete information. Organized roughly by date, each set contains cards with the students' biographical details (hometown, school and class year) and a record of their participation in Columbia Athletics. Cards are organized alphabetically, except for the last set, 1988-1994, which is organized by sport (e.g. archery) or division (e.g. lightweight crew) and then alphabetically.
