Biographical / Historical

---

Kenneth Waltz (1924-2013) was a Columbia University Professor and influential scholar of Political Science and International Relations. He received a B.A. from Oberlin College in Economics and a PhD in Political Science from Columbia. In the middle of his studies he served in the Army during both World War II and the Korean War. He then taught at Columbia until 1957, after which he held positions at Swarthmore College, Brandeis University and the University of California, Berkeley. In 1997 he returned to Columbia as an adjunct professor of Political Science and a Senior Research Scholar at the Arnold A. Saltzman Institute for War and Peace Studies.

Waltz was influential in helping to shape the field of International Relations. He is best known for his theory of neorealism, also called structural realism, which explains how states behave and interact with each other within the international system. Waltz's two most successful books included Man, the State, and War: a Theoretical Analysis (1959) and Theory of International Politics (1979). From 1987-1988 he was the President of the American Political Science Association and in 1999 won the association's James Madison award. His work later in life focused on nuclear weapons and he held a controversial position that nuclear proliferation would prevent nuclear war. Waltz continued to teach and write on the subject until his death in 2013.

Revision Description

File created. Updated front matter after collection processing -- CLB EAD was imported spring 2019 as part of the ArchivesSpace Phase II migration. 2018-08-09 2018-07-25 2019-05-20

Restrictions on Access

This collection is located onsite.

Restrictions on Access

Student letters of recommendation are restricted for 75 years from date of creation.

Immediate Source of Acquisition

The Kenneth Waltz Papers were the gift of the Saltzman Institute of War and Peace Studies to the Rare Book and Manuscript Library at Columbia University in 2014.

Processing Information

Papers processed by Rachel Klepper. Finding aid written by Rachel Klepper, July 2018.

Processing Information

When the collection was acquired from the Institute of War and Peace Studies, the boxes were not numbered and there was not a clear order to them. Therefore they were reordered during processing. The physical arrangement of documents within boxes and folder titles were not changed. Moving boxes were replaced with record cartons and new folders were supplied when original folders were damaged or did not exist.

Processing Information

Duplicates of Waltz's publications and unfiled articles by other scholars were removed from the collection. In addition, two boxes of objects from Waltz's desk and shelf that were acquired along with his papers were removed.

Terms Governing Use and Reproduction

Reproductions may be made for research purposes. The RBML maintains ownership of the physical material only. Copyright remains with the creator and his/her heirs. The responsibility to secure copyright permission rests with the patron.

Accruals

Materials may have been added to the collection since this finding aid was prepared. Contact rbml@columbia.edu for more information.

Series I: Scholarship, 1950-2012

Scope and Contents

Series I contains Waltz's research and writing from his graduate work through his later career. Much of the series consists of files of research on specific topics in International Relations and Waltz's collection of articles by other scholars. Some of this material relates directly to his published work, also contained in the series, while some is more generally on topics connected to studies in the field. A number of the topics covered here are also referenced in the files of teaching materials in series II.

Subseries I.1: Research, 1950-2007

Scope and Contents

Subseries I.1 includes Waltz's reading notes, folders of articles, and newspaper clippings. Two boxes in this subseries comprise his vertical file, in which he kept printouts and clippings of articles alphabetized, usually by author. The rest of the files are labeled by their subject, covering theories and concepts of international relations, organizations, key terms, and areas of the world. A set of alphabetically filed, typed reading notes appear to be from Waltz's graduate work in the early 1950s, while the rest of the material was collected in the course of his scholarly career between the late 1950s and early 2000s.

Series III: Correspondence and Personal, 1940-2012

Scope and Contents

Series III is a small series that includes a range of documents and objects related to Waltz's personal life and professional correspondence. There are folders of reviews and letters about his work, interviews, and copies of his CV and bio. There is also a file of materials from Waltz's wife Helen's (also called Huddie) death. The series also includes photographs, collected stamps, and military patches and ribbons. Gloves should be used when handling the photographs.
