Scope and Contents

The Corporation awards grants to nonprofit organizations and institutions for projects that are broadly educational in nature and that show promise of having national or international impact. Certain appropriations are made for activities, such as Corporation-led initiatives that are administered by the foundation's officers. The trustees set the overall policies of the foundation and have final authority to approve all grants above $50,000 recommended by the program staff. Grants of $25,000 or less, called discretionary grants, are made upon the approval of the president and are reported to the board; larger discretionary grants, those between $25,000 and $50,000, are also reviewed by a Corporation-wide group, which makes recommendations to the president. (from Program Guidelines 2003-2004 (<http://www.carnegie.org/sub/program/areas.html>))

Scope and Contents

The Grants series contains correspondence, records of phone and in-person meetings, memoranda, and reports that document CCNY's grant-making and grant-monitoring activities, as well as the work carried out by grantees. While most of the subseries reflect CCNY's dealings with external institutions and individuals that received or applied for funding, this series (especially subseries A and C) also includes files for: organizations with which CCNY collaborated rather than supported (e.g. Ford Foundation), individuals and staff who worked with or for CCNY on several projects, and subject or geographic areas that reflect ongoing programmatic focus by the Corporation. Subseries A and C also contain files for the Corporation's grants for its own Program Development and Evaluation. Grant numbers are prefaced with a B (for board appropriation) or a D (for discretionary grant).

Subseries III.B. Reports on Grants, 1911-1983

Scope and Contents

Most reports on grants are contained within the appropriate folders in the Grant files subseries (III.A). The reports which are listed below are those which Carnegie Corporation staff stored separately because they were too bulky to be included in the folders.

Scope and Contents

This series contains the reports on grants which were separated from the grant file in Series III.A because the report was deemed large enough to warrant its own separate folder. This separation is not typically done now. When searching the grant files please always search the reports on grants as well.
