Biographical sketch

Herbert Henry Lehman was born in New York City on March 28, 1878. He was the son of Mayer Lehman of Rimpar, Germany, and Babetta Newgass. Along with his brothers Henry and Emanuel, Mayer Lehman founded the Lehman Brothers investment banking firm.

Biographical sketch

Herbert Lehman grew up in New York and attended Sachs Collegiate Institute. After graduating from Williams College with a BA in 1899, he worked for the J. Spencer Turner Co., a textile manufacturing company, as a salesman and quickly worked his way up to vice president and treasurer. In 1908, he became a partner in Lehman Brothers. Lehman married Edith Altschul in 1910 and they would adopt three children, Peter, John, and Hilda Lane.

Biographical sketch

When World War I began, Lehman was eager to join the armed services. At 39 he was considered too old to fight, but persisted until he found a position at the Navy Department in the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, where he became responsible for procuring textiles for clothing, uniforms, and blankets. He was eventually made assistant director of the Purchase, Storage, and Traffic Division, which was charged with securing supplies for the Army on a massive scale. He was awarded a Distinguished Service Medal for his work.

Biographical sketch

During the 1920s, Lehman became actively involved in politics and assisted with the presidential campaign of Al Smith. He left business entirely in 1928 and became Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Democratic Party. Lehman was elected lieutenant governor of New York in 1928 and 1930 and worked closely with then-governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, who valued his understanding of business. Lehman was elected governor of New York in 1932 and served four terms from 1933 to 1942. He was the first Jewish governor of the state.

Biographical sketch

During the Depression, Lehman supported President Franklin D. Roosevelt and based New York relief efforts on the New Deal. His "Little New Deal" programs set a minimum wage, provided aid to the unemployed, created options for public housing, created an unemployment insurance program, reduced utility rates, and aided farmers. Lehman also ensured that New York received maximum funding from New Deal programs such as the Civil Works Administration and the Works Progress Administration. LaGuardia Airport, The Central Park Zoo, the Triborough Bridge, and the Lincoln Tunnel were among the projects created by New Deal programs.

Biographical sketch

On December 3, 1942, Lehman resigned as governor and become Director of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation Operations for the United States Department of State, an appointment offered by Roosevelt. The remainder of his term--only one month--was served by Charles Poletti. The following year, Lehman was chosen for the position of Director-General of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration (UNRRA). From 1943 to 1946 he helped organize the distribution of food, supplies, and equipment to European countries.

Biographical sketch

All three of Lehman's children served in the US military during World War II. His son Peter, a pilot who was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for his missions in Germany, was killed during a practice flight in 1944.

Biographical sketch

Lehman was the Democratic nominee for U.S. Senator from New York in 1946, but was defeated by Republican candidate Irving Ives. In 1949, when Senator Robert F. Wagner retired early due to health issues, Lehman ran in the special election for the remainder of the term and won, defeating John Foster Dulles. In 1950, he was re-elected to a full term and served until 1956. As a senator Lehman faced many challenges. He opposed changes to immigration policies that would base quotas on national origin, arguing that such policies were racist and that family unification, occupational skill, and pleas for asylum were more important considerations. He argued for better enforcement of civil rights legislation and an end to discrimination in housing and employment. Lehman strongly opposed the actions of Senator Joseph McCarthy throughout the 1950s and spoke openly and persistently against him.

Biographical sketch

Lehman retired from the senate in 1956 and did not seek another office, but he was still involved in politics and joined a group of reform Democrats with the aim of removing Tammany Hall influences from the party. Their efforts eventually ended the Tammany political machine.

Biographical sketch

Both Herbert and Edith Lehman were active in philanthropy throughout their lives and were given many awards in recognition of their aid. They funded "Pete's House" at the Henry Street Settlement honor of their son Peter, who had been a youth leader there. They also created the Lehman Children's Zoo (now the Tisch Zoo) at the Central Park Zoo in 1961.

Scope and Content

The collection documents Herbert H. Lehman's entire political career, though it focuses most heavily on his years as governor and senator. There is also material relating to his personal life, particularly his family and hobbies. It contains correspondence, speeches, research files, photographs, audio and visual recordings, oral histories, scrapbooks, articles, clippings, book drafts, appointment books, artwork, political cartoons, and memorabilia.

Separated Materials

Several artworks were moved to Art Properties and cataloged separately. Contact Art Properties for access. Art Properties took custody of the three portraits: C00.1824.01 = Portrait of Herbert H. Lehman (1878-1963) by Everett Raymond Kinstler: https://clio.columbia.edu/catalog/14291009 C00.1824.02 = Portrait of Edith Altschul Lehman (1899-1976): https://clio.columbia.edu/catalog/14291010 C00.1824.03 = Portrait of Irving Lehman (1876-1945): https://clio.columbia.edu/catalog/14291011 Also part of the Lehman collection was a wooden sculpture that we took custody of and accessioned. The figure is standing on a ball with the labels UNRRA on it. The accession number is C00.1824.04. However, a CLIO record does not yet exist for it. The sculpture is in Art Properties storage. Note that another related item C00.1677 (Portrait of Herbert H. Lehman (1878-1963) by Daniel E. Greene: https://clio.columbia.edu/catalog/14983101) has been in the Art Properties collection for decades, so likely was never a part of Herbert Lehman Papers.

Collection Inventory

Series I: Lehman Special Files, 1895-1987

Scope and Contents

Originally, the "special files" were a small collection of files that Lehman kept separate from general correspondence for quick personal reference. After his death, the file was expanded to include the correspondence of individuals deemed especially well-known or significant. Most of this material was moved from general correspondence.

Subseries I.1: Special Correspondence, 1895-1981

Scope and Contents

This subseries contains correspondence between Lehman and significant politicians, artists, scientists, and other well-known individuals, as well as members of Lehman's family. Correspondents include, among many others, Albert Einstein, Alfred Knopf, Wellington Koo, J. Edgar Hoover, Joseph McCarthy, and Presidents Herbert Hoover, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman, Dwight Eisenhower, John F. Kennedy, Lyndon B. Johnson, and Richard Nixon. The Special Correspondence Files have been scanned and cataloged and are available online at https://dlc.library.columbia.edu/lehman.

Series II: Correspondence, 1913-1963

Scope and Contents

While correspondence can be found throughout the collection, this series contains several large correspondence files that were maintained for long periods of Lehman's life.

Subseries II.1: General Correspondence, 1913-1963

Scope and Contents

This correspondence file ranges from early in Lehman's political career until his death in 1963. It is a mix of personal and professional letters.

Processing Information:

Processing Information

Note: Many files in this subseries contain pink cross-reference forms. It is unclear at what point in the collection's history these were added, and they make reference only to names and titles, not to location. As a result it is not always clear to what files they are referring to. Files which contain only these pink slips and no original documents have been labeled "cross reference only."

Arrangement

The documents have been filed chronologically and then arranged alphabetically within each year.

Subseries II.3: Carolin Flexner and Francis Bergman, 1921-1953

Scope and Contents

These are the files of Lehman's secretaries, Carolin Flexner and Francis Bergman. The Flexner files are comprised of general correspondence, aid requests, Albany cross reference files, and charities files. General correspondence contains letters between Lehman and Flexner written when he was away from his office and needed updates, as well as correspondence between Flexner and others filed by subject or name. The Albany cross reference files appear to refer to a file not included in the collection. The aid request files primarily contain correspondence between Flexner and US citizens with family in Germany, who wrote to Lehman in with the hope that he could help their relatives leave the country or at least send them food or money. In some cases German refugees wrote to him looking for job assistance, since they faced discrimination in the US. Their letters and Flexner's responses on behalf of Lehman are included here. The charities files hold correspondence with charities arranged by name. The much smaller collection of Bergman files contains correspondence on a variety of subjects, in most cases from people contacting Lehman through his secretary.

Series III: Senate Files, 1949-1956

Scope and Contents

This large series contains documents created during Lehman's terms as a Senator of New York, 1949 to 1956.

Subseries III.1: Tissue Files, 1949-1956

Scope and Contents

These files hold carbon copies (printed on thin "tissue" paper) of outgoing correspondence sent by Lehman or his assistants and secretaries during his term as senator. Some of these letters simply acknowledge receipt of the many inquiries Lehman received on a daily basis, but others provide more in depth responses to a wide variety of questions and requests. In most cases the subject of the letter has been added to the top right hand corner. The files have been arranged chronologically by month and year, and then further arranged alphabetically within each month by addressee name.

Subseries III.2: Day-to-Day Files, 1950-1956

Scope and Contents

Like the tissue files, this series is comprised mainly of carbon copy responses from Lehman and his assistants, but it contains personal letters—such as thank you notes, responses to invitations, letters of recommendation, congratulations, and condolences--rather than discussions of political issues. The files are arranged chronologically.

Subseries III.3: Legislative Files, 1931-1960

Scope and Contents

This large subseries primarily contains research and correspondence on the many topics and issues that confronted Senator Lehman, ranging from education to dairy farming to taxes on alcohol. These were filed alphabetically by topic into a group of office files, three large subject files, and research files compiled by Lehman's executive assistant Julius Edelstein and research assistants Jack Carter, Elizabeth Donahue, Stanley Carson, John Silard, Robert Low, Ruth Schneider, and Francis Williams, which are arranged under each assistant's name. There are also small groups of labor legislation files and nomination files.

Subseries III.4: Senate Robo Files, 1954-1957

Scope and Contents

As a senator, Lehman received many letters from the public urging him to support or oppose proposed legislation on a wide variety of topics. He often responded with "robo" letters (or form letters)--pre-written responses that outlined and explained his position. Most of the robo letters in this subseries concern legislation discussed during the 84th Congress, along with a small amount from the 82nd and 83rd Congresses. In addition to the robo letters themselves, some files also contain examples of the letters Lehman received from the public, and a few contain copies of bills or other related information. Files are arranged alphabetically by topic.

Subseries III.5: Bill Files, 1949-1956

Scope and Contents

This series contains documents relating to both public and private bills. Public bill files typically contain copies of the bill and congressional record, reports, research material, Lehman's position on the bill, and correspondence with lawyers and other experts on the topic. Most of the private bills concern individuals seeking visas or permanent resident status, either for themselves or for their spouses, children, or employees. Many of their situations are related to the war – soldiers who married while overseas or adopted children there. Most files contain letters from these individuals explaining their situation, recommendation letters, and correspondence between Lehman, lawyers, and other senators discussing the case. The subseries also holds printed copies of bills.

Subseries III.6: Departmental Files, 1947-1957

Scope and Contents

This series is comprised of correspondence between Lehman and various government departments and offices. Lehman often contacted these departments on behalf of individuals who wrote to him for help, and much of this series involves these cases. It has been arranged into several sections: Military Academies contains Lehman's nominations of students to military academies and their application packets and references. The Postmaster Files contain recommendations and discussions of the appointments of postmasters in New York towns and cities. Subject Files includes correspondence and other documents arranged by office or department. The Correspondent Files contain further correspondence between Lehman and a number of offices and government officials, usually on behalf of citizens who had written to Lehman asking for help; the Services Files contain correspondence with government agencies that are involved in public service, including the armed services and those relating to health, housing, agriculture, and many others; Finally, the State Department Files contain correspondence between Lehman and the Visa Division of the Department of State regarding cases of individuals seeking visas or visa extensions.

Subseries III.7: Senate Subject Files, 1938-1956

Scope and Contents

This subseries is comprised of subject files on some of the major topics and issues that Lehman faced while he was senator. It includes a significant amount of information on the Immigration Act of 1953, McCarthyism, rent control, internal security, and social security, among many other subjects. Files typically contain correspondence, clippings, reports, articles, and press releases. They have been arranged alphabetically.

Series IX: Photographs

Scope and Contents

This series contains photographs of Lehman and his family members and colleagues as well as photographs taken by Lehman.

Title/Description	Instances
Subseries IX.1: Photographs, 1878-1994 Scope and Contents The majority of photographs in the collection can be found in this subseries. It includes images of Lehman with other political figures including Franklin D. and Eleanor Roosevelt, John F. Kennedy, and Charles Poletti, among many others; UNRRA photographs depicting the countries to which it provided aid; many photos of Edith Lehman and members of the Lehman family; formal portraits; Lehman's show dogs; the Central Park Children's Zoo; and the Lehman home, Lehman College, and the Lehman Suite at Columbia University. It also contains photographs of landscapes, European towns, and ruins taken by Herbert Lehman, some of which were matted for an exhibit. Most photographs are black and white prints. They are arranged alphabetically by name or subject.
