Biographical / Historical

Carnegie Corporation of New York, which was established by Andrew Carnegie in 1911 "to promote the advancement and diffusion of knowledge and understanding" is one of the oldest, largest and most influential of American foundations. Since its inception it has provided grants for research and educational studies in the United States and, to a lesser degree, in other parts of the English-speaking world outside of the United Kingdom. Carnegie Corporation has contributed to the expansion of higher education and adult education; the research on learning and cognitive development; the promotion of educational and public interest broadcasting; and the advancement of minorities. It has funded the writing of books and studies, as well as the organization of conferences and international exchanges, radio shows, legal proceedings and other activities. Over the century of its existence, the Corporation has helped establish or endowed a variety of institutions, including thousands of Carnegie libraries, TIAA-CREF, the National Research Council, National Bureau of Economic Research, Brookings Institution, American Law Institute, American Association for Adult Education, Russian Research Center and other research institutes in Harvard University, Children's Defense Fund, National Assessment of Educational Progress, National Board for Professional Teaching Standards, the Children's Television Workshop, and many others. In the 1980s and 1990s, it helped heighten public understanding of the education and health needs of children and adolescents, as well as brought to public attention the risks of superpower confrontation, nuclear war, and ethnic and civil strife. For many years Carnegie Corporation provided financial support to Carnegie's other philanthropic organizations. Through its activities the Corporation has had a significant influence on public discourse and policy.

Biographical / Historical

In the Corporation's early years, Carnegie himself was president and a trustee. James Bertram, his private secretary, and Robert A. Franks, his financial agent, were also trustees and, respectively, secretary and treasurer of the Corporation. These three comprised the first executive committee and made most of the funding decisions. The other seats on the board were held ex-officio by the presidents of the five previously established Carnegie organizations in the United States-Carnegie Institute (of Pittsburgh) (est. 1896), Carnegie Institution of Washington (est. 1902), Carnegie Hero Fund Commission (est. 1904), Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching (est. 1905), and Carnegie Endowment for International Peace (est. 1910). Shortly after Carnegie's death in 1919, the trustees elected a full-time, salaried president as chief executive officer of the Corporation and made him an ex officio member of the board. The presidents since Andrew Carnegie have been: Elihu Root (1919-1920), James R. Angell (1920-1921), Henry S. Pritchett (1921-1923, acting), Frederick P. Keppel (1923-1941), Walter A. Jessup (1941-1944), Devereux C. Josephs (1945-1948), Charles Dollard (1948-1955), John W. Gardner (1955-1967), Alan Pifer (1967-1982, acting 1965-1967), David A. Hamburg (1982-1997), Vartan Gregorian (1997-2022), and Dame Louise Richardson (2023-present).

Summary

Minutes, correspondence, annual reports, press releases, financial records, photographs, memorabilia, audiovisual, digital and printed materials document the philanthropic activities and administration of the Carnegie Corporation of New York. The collection is actively growing, primarily through regular document transfers from the Carnegie Corporation of New York. Andrew Carnegie's biographical information and personal philanthropic activity can be found in Series VII. In addition, his pre-1911 gifts, most notably his donations for libraries and church organs, can be found on microfilm (Series II), in the Home Trust Company Records (VI.A), and Financial Record Books (I.C.1). Grant files (Series III.A), which comprise the bulk of the collection) provide information on projects and institutions founded, endowed or supported by the Corporation. The Special Initiatives series (Series IV) contains the records of task forces, commissions and councils, formed by the Corporation mostly during the 1970s, 1980s, and 1990s to address specific issues. The Corporation's records include those of other Carnegie philanthropic organizations (Series VI), including the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching and the Home Trust Company, both of which shared staff, officers, and office space with the Corporation for a period of time.

Subseries I.B. Finance Committee Records, 1923-1997

Physical Description: (34 boxes)

Scope and Content Note

This subseries contains agendas, minutes, correspondence, and other materials of the Finance Committee, including reports of sales and/or purchases of securities, periodic cash balance statements, and analyses of holdings and investments. The correspondence and minutes from meetings provide insight into portfolio decisions and financial policy, with letters from individuals offering advice on investment, diversification tables, and historical data. Interaction with the Morgan Guaranty Trust Company, United States Trust Company, and the firm of Miller, Anderson, and Sherrerd is also well documented. In addition, there are records of studies undertaken by the Committee of industries in which they sought or held investments. Following realignment in 1971, the Finance Committee became the Finance and Administration Committee and thereafter was responsible for allocating the budget, determining salaries, and approving expenses.

Series II: Microfilm, circa 1886-1977

Scope and Contents

Most of the original (paper) files represented in this series on film were discarded after they were filmed in the 1940s and 1950s. In a few instances, the files exist only on microfiche rather than microfilm. The 107 reels consist of correspondence files and index card files. They chiefly pertain to gifts and grants made by Andrew Carnegie and Carnegie Corporation for free public library buildings and academic library buildings. The reels also include files pertaining to grants-in-aid to individuals, gifts and grants to communities for church organs, and miscellaneous "General Donations."

Scope and Contents

In addition, Reels 41-42 (II.B) contain an index to the minutes of the meetings of the Corporation's Board, and Reels 90 and 91 (Subseries II.C: General Correspondence on Myrdal, "An American dilemma : the Negro problem and modern democracy") pertain to the Corporation study which resulted in Gunnar Myrdal's highly influential book, An American Dilemma. Reel 107 (II.D) contains General Ledger and Securities Cards.

Arrangement

This series is arranged in four subseries: Subseries II.A: Gifts and Grants Subseries; II.B: Index to Board Minutes Subseries; II.C: General Correspondence on Myrdal, "An American dilemma : the Negro problem and modern democracy"; Subseries II.D: General Ledger and Securities Cards

Section II.A.1.a: Free Public Library Buildings

Scope and Contents

As a self-educated man and firm believer in popular education (his formal education ended at the age of twelve), Carnegie thought that access to books should be a part of the birthright of every youngster and that public libraries, still an innovation in American life, should be an indispensable civic institution. Carnegie and Carnegie Corporation spent $56 million to establish 2,509 public libraries, of which 1,681 were in the United States.

Scope and Contents

The public library files are arranged by the name of the community to which the grants were made; the academic libraries by the name of the university, college or school which received the grant. The number of documents in each file varies widely. These documents include correspondence, completed applications and questionnaires, newspaper clippings, illustrations and building dedication programs.

Description for Series III, grants, temporarily moved to separate finding aid: https://findingaids.library.columbia.edu/ead/nnc-rb/ldpd_16647888/

Scope and Contents

The Grants series contains correspondence, records of phone and in-person meetings, memoranda, and reports that document CCNY's grant-making and grant-monitoring activities, as well as the work carried out by grantees. While most of the subseries reflect CCNY's dealings with external institutions and individuals that received or applied for funding, this series (especially subseries A and C) also includes files for: organizations with which CCNY collaborated rather than supported (e.g. Ford Foundation), individuals and staff who worked with or for CCNY on several projects, and subject or geographic areas that reflect ongoing programmatic focus by the Corporation. Subseries A and C also contain files for the Corporation's grants for its own Program Development and Evaluation. Grant numbers are prefaced with a B (for board appropriation) or a D (for discretionary grant).

Subseries IV.A. Carnegie Commission on Preventing Deadly Conflict (CCPDC), 1995-1999

Physical Description: 26 boxes

Scope and Contents

Carnegie Corporation of New York established the Carnegie Commission on Preventing Deadly Conflict in May 1994 to address the looming threat to world peace of intergroup violence and to advance new ideas for the prevention and resolution of deadly conflict. An operating program of the Corporation, the Commission is cochaired by Corporation president emeritus David A. Hamburg and Cyrus R. Vance, former U.S. secretary of state. It has a membership of sixteen eminent international leaders and scholars with long experience in conflict prevention and resolution. An Advisory Council, expert consultants, and experienced practitioners have assisted the Commission in its work.

Scope and Contents

The Commission has examined the principal causes of deadly ethnic, nationalist, and religious conflicts within and between states and the circumstances that foster or deter their outbreak. Taking a long-term, worldwide view of violent conflicts that are likely to emerge, it seeks to determine the functional requirements of an effective system for preventing mass violence and to identify the ways in which such a system could be implemented. The Commission looks at the strengths and weaknesses of various international entities in conflict prevention and considers ways in which international organizations might contribute toward developing an effective international system of nonviolent problem solving.

Scope and Contents

The Carnegie Commission on Preventing Deadly Conflict ceased operations in December 1999. Commission reports are still available for download on this site. The Conflict Prevention Project at the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars builds on the work of the Commission. Goals of the Project include creating a forum for dialogue and exchange between policymakers, scholars and practitioners; contributing knowledge, experience, and suggestions for implementing conflict prevention strategies; and encouraging policy focus and coordination efforts in the conflict prevention communities.

Physical Description: 1 box

Scope and Contents

The Carnegie Council on Children (CCC) was established in 1972 by the Corporation to undertake a broad investigation of what American society was doing to and for children, and what government, business, and other organizations and individuals could do to protect and support family life. The Council, which ended its work in 1979, consisted of 11 persons drawn from a wide variety of disciplines, including law, economics, anthropology, child development, history, and pediatrics. Its chairman and idrector was Kenneth Keniston, Andrew W. Mellon Professor of Human Development at MIT. Five major report's emerged from the Council's deliberations. The first, an overall analysis of the position of children in American society, entitled All Our Children: The American Family Under Pressure, was issued in 1977, together with policy recommendations for ways in which children's' needs could be met in the coming years. Other books issued by the Council included Small Futures: inequality, children, and the limits of liberal reform, by Richard H. de Lone, and The Unexpected Minority: handicapped children in America, by John Gliedman and William Roth. (from 1979 Annual Report)

Subseries IV.E. Task Force on Learning in the Primary Grades (TFLPG), 1992-1996

Physical Description: 16 boxes

Scope and Contents

The Carnegie Task Force on Learning in the Primary Grades urged American schools to ensure that substantially all students by the end of primary school meet standards of performance in the core subjects and skills sufficient to enable them to learn effectively in the later grades so that they could graduate from high school able to function well as citizens, as participants in the modern economy, and as students in subsequent levels of education. The Task Force also provided evidence that schools are falling far short of this goal for many, and by world standards perhaps most, students. It nevertheless held out hope that, with the application of the best current understanding and with continuing efforts to extend that knowledge, schools should be able to help most children meet these expectations. [from internal Fritz Mosher memo, "Draft Proposal for a Primary Grades Grant Program," 27 May 1997]

Series VI: Other Carnegie Organizations

Subseries VI.A: Home Trust Company, 1884-1975

Scope and Contents

Andrew Carnegie established the Home Trust Company in 1901. The role of this financial institution was to invest, keep, and distribute the money Carnegie had set aside for philanthropic activities, as well as distribute money and pensions to relatives, friends, and others as Andrew Carnegie thought appropriate. The Trust, officially a banking firm, never engaged in general banking business. It functioned primarily as the trustee and administrator of trust funds established by Carnegie during his lifetime and then served as the executor of his will.

Scope and Contents

The company was chartered in New Jersey and had its headquarters in Hoboken. Robert A. Franks, Carnegie's close friend and financial agent from 1883 until Carnegie's death in 1919, was the president of the Company. The other directors were George Lauder, Andrew Carnegie II, Alexander and George King, and Howard Russell Butler.

Scope and Contents

Carnegie began his list of pensioners in 1881. The list included persons of distinction from all fields -arts, politics, social service, education- who were in need. Other pensioners were figures from his earlier life. It was a private list. In 1901 he gave to the Home Trust Company its first Trust fund to pay these pensions. The initial payment was 1.24 million which grew to 4.25 million by 1914. Other Trusts administered by the Home Trust Company included those set up by George Lauder and Louise W. Carnegie, the railway equipment and other corporate trusts, and trusts for the payment of annuities and Carnegie Hall employee pensions

Scope and Contents

The Company also served as the source from which Franks, according to Carnegie's instructions, distributed Steel bonds to the trustees of the philanthropic trusts started by Carnegie -Carnegie Institution of Washington, Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, and Carnegie Hero Fund. The last trust to receive such a distribution was the Carnegie Corporation of New York, established in 1911 with the bulk of the bonds in the safe in Hoboken. The remaining bonds were transferred to a bank in Manhattan. (Robert Franks became the Treasurer of CCNY at that time.)

Scope and Contents

In 1925, CCNY accepted, as part of its legacy, the 965 shares of Home Trust Company stock held in the estate. In 1936 since the Corporation owned most of the Company's common stock, the Corporation's officers undertook the responsibility of running the Company. Until 1962, it continued to administer trusts from which personal pensions and annuities were paid to those on Carnegie's list who survived. In 1962, the Home Trust Company and CCNY entered into an agreement with Hudson Trust Company (later Hudson United Bank) whereby Hudson would administer the business of the Home Trust Company. In 1973 CCNY dissolved the Home Trust Company.

Subseries VI.A.1 Robert A. Franks Files, 1893-1951Scope and Contents

Robert A. Franks served as President of the Home Trust Company and as Treasurer of the Corporation from the founding of each organization respectively until his death in 1935. Before their acquisition by Columbia in 1998 these records were stored at the Hudson United Bank. They represent those Robert Frank's files that were never transferred to the Corporation's headquarters. These records include correspondence, memoranda, legal documents, business ledgers, tax returns, and other financial documents and reflect Franks work for Carnegie as the President and administrator of the Home Trust Company and, to a lesser extent, his role as Carnegie's personal assistant and manager of Carnegie's affairs in general. (See, for example, the expense statements for Lucy C. Carnegie's (sister in law) Florida island estate, Dungeness.) Carnegie Estate Records from these files were combined with other Estate Records in part 2 (Boxes 6-9) of this subseries. The Pension Files, part of the same group of records from the Hudson United Bank, comprise part 4 (Boxes 27-43) of this subseries.

Subseries VI.A.2. Andrew Carnegie Estate, 1913-1931

Scope and Contents

The Home Trust Company was the executor of Andrew Carnegie's will. The settlement of the Carnegie Estate was a long, complicated, and drawn-out process which lasted until 1931. This subseries comprises some files from the Franks files described above, combined with other files relating to the Carnegie Estate from the Corporation's offices. These files consists of correspondence, memoranda, legal briefs, court proceedings, disbursement schedules, and financial statements documenting the settlement of Andrew Carnegie's Estate. Most of the correspondence consists of letters (legal briefs) to Franks and his assistant, James A. Fortune, from the firm of Root, Clark, Buckner and Howland. This subseries also contains Carnegie's will, his marriage contract with Louise Carnegie, and his naturalization papers.

Subseries VI.A.3: CCNY Files, 1901-1975

Scope and Contents

This subseries consists of the Home Trust Company Records kept in the offices of the Carnegie Corporation of New York. The files represent Robert Franks's files and, to a lesser extent, the files of the office the CCNY Treasurer. Some files are those of Franks's successor as Treasurer of CCNY,

C. Herbert Lee, and others cover general areas of CCNY grant-making or business with a particular grantee. Therefore, the correspondence, memoranda, and financial statements document the general operations of CCNY, as well as the day to day activity of the Home Trust Company after it moved to the offices of CCNY. The files include correspondence between several Carnegie Presidents and Franks regarding his releasing Corporation funds for grants and other purposes. Also Included in these files are legal documents and correspondence concerning the settlement of Andrew Carnegie's Estate, and files that reflect the process of clarifying the nature of the relationship between the Home Trust Company and the Corporation and the relationships of each to the other Carnegie philanthropic trusts. Since the Home Trust Company regularly transferred funds to other Carnegie philanthropic trusts, it became important to establish CCNY's ability under its charter to continue this support. (See, for example, Box 24. Relations between Carnegie Endowment and Carnegie Corp.)

Subseries VI.B. Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, circa 1932-1965

Scope and Contents

This subseries contains general subject files as well as the agendas, minutes, and other informational materials of the Finance Committee, Executive Committee, and Board of Trustees of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching (CFAT), which for many years shared staff and office space with Carnegie Corporation. The Finance Committee material contains transaction memoranda specifying recently bought and sold securities, book and market values of holdings, and investment office memoranda. In 1959, the Finance Committee was re-named the Investment Committee. The Executive Committee material documents receipts and disbursements, income received and expected, payments and the status of reserve funds; administrative personnel and changes in CFAT's infrastructure; CFAT's relationship with other organizations, especially its relationship with Carnegie Corporation; the Division of Educational Inquiry and the many studies it organized and completed; and studies of retiring allowances and pensions. The Board of Trustees material includes documentation of annual meetings; nominations, elections, and appointments to the board; and officer reports. In addition, the records document the results of major studies, the results of which were reported at the Annual Meetings. Such studies include examinations of the college and university presidency, university-government relations, the shortage of college and university teachers, student values, and the role of faculty in the academic community.
