Historical Note

---

The Columbia University School of Social Work is one of the oldest schools of social work in the United States. The school originated in a summer course developed by the Charity Organization Society of New York City in 1898, in response to a perceived need for training in order to adequately administer social services and distribute charity among the poor. The school became academically affiliated with Columbia University in 1940, and was fully absorbed by the university in 1959.

^ Return to Table of Contents

Historical Note

---

The Summer School in Philanthropy's course offerings expanded into a full academic year in 1903. Beginning in 1911, the school began to offer a two-year diploma in social work. In 1919, the school's name also changed to the New York School of Social Work.

^ Return to Table of Contents

Historical Note

---

The school was initially administered by a Director, who reported to the Charity Organization Society's Board of Trustees. As the school's activities and administrative needs expanded, the COS Trustees formed a standing Committee on the School of Social Work. In 1931, the School moved from the COS building at 105 East 22nd Street in Manhattan, into a purpose-built tower of the Russell Sage Foundation building at 122 East 22nd Street.

---

In 1939, the Charity Organization Society merged with the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor. The combined organizations became the Community Service Society. The next year, 1940, the New York School of Social Work became academically affiliated with Columbia University, and awarded its first Master of Social Work degrees. In 1941, the school's own independent Board of Trustees was created.

Historical Note

---

Upon the retirement of Director Walter W. Pettit in 1947, Margaret Leal became the school's first Acting Dean. In 1949, Kenneth D. Johnson was appointed Dean, with Leal assuming the role of Associate Dean. That year, the school also moved into the former residence of Andrew Carnegie at 2 East 91st Street. The terms of its lease agreement with the Carnegie Corporation stipulated that the school would not be charged rent.

Historical Note

---

The New York School of Social Work formally separated from the Community Service Society in 1950. The same year, the school accepted its first doctoral candidates in Social Work; the first Doctor of Social Work degrees were awarded in 1952. The 1950s ended with the school's full integration into Columbia University in 1959.

^ Return to Table of Contents

Historical Note

---

The school changed its name for the last time, to Columbia University School of Social Work, in 1963. In 1969, the school moved from the Carnegie Mansion to Columbia University's McVickar Hall. It remained in that location until a new building at 1255 Amsterdam Avenue was completed in 2004.

^ Return to Table of Contents

Historical Note

---

The School of Social Work played a significant role in advancing the profession of social work and raising public consciousness of social services, both in the United States and beyond. Representatives from the school participated in foundational events in the history of American social work, including the 1909 White House Conference on the Care of Dependent Children, the Milford Conference, and the development of the Social Security Act. The Columbia University School of Social Work celebrated its centennial in 1998.

Restrictions on Access

This collection is located off-site. You will need to request this material at least three business days in advance to use the collection in the Rare Book and Manuscript Library reading room.

Restrictions on Access

All administrative records of the University are restricted for 25 years from their dates of creation. Student and employee records are restricted for 75 years from their dates of creation.

Conditions Governing Access

There is no Box 29 in the collection.

Immediate Source of Acquisition

1996.001, 1997.003, 2017.2018.M067.

Immediate Source of Acquisition

Materials in boxes 1-7 were taken from Columbiana Subject Files, including one old subject box from Low N. Gallery. Eight boxes of records from the Social Work Library were transferred to the University Archives in summer 2019 after being discovered in a closet in the Lehman Social Sciences Library.

Immediate Source of Acquisition

Folders 59-62 in Box 41 were donated in September 2021 by Naomi Pines Gitterman.

Custodial History

While the New York School of Philanthropy was founded in 1898, the bulk of its surviving records date from the 1930s onward. The disposition of the school's earlier records is unknown, though their absence was noted by 1998 at the latest, as the school prepared to celebrate its centennial.

The custodial history of the materials taken from the Columbiana Subject Files prior to their arrival in Columbiana is also unknown.

Processing Information

This collection was processed by Hong Deng Gao and Celeste Brewer. Finding aid written by Celeste Brewer in January 2020.

Processing Information

The bulk of the collection was placed in new, acid-free folders. Folders in good condition were retained. Oversized materials were separated and housed in appropriately-sized boxes. Deteriorating report covers and other temporary bindings, primarily used for storing meeting minutes, were discarded when they were clearly damaging their contents. The contents of Box 69 and Box 83 were found to be mold contaminated and were cleaned in 2021.

Processing Information

Early in processing, materials in Boxes 8 through 45 were physically organized according to a preliminary arrangement scheme that was not ultimately imposed on the collection. Their original order was not documented, nor is it known whether the order in which they arrived at the University Archives was their original order. The physical arrangement of Boxes 46-79 appears to be mostly arbitrary. In both cases, after the preliminary arrangement scheme was decided against, no attempt was made to systematically alter the materials' physical arrangement. Materials are instead arranged intellectually.

Processing Information

Four folders of early Field Work related material were donated by Naomi Gitterman in September 2021 and were added to Box 41 of the collection in September 2021 by Jocelyn Wilk. It was determined that the material was similar enough in nature to the contents of Series I.3 that it was added, intellectually, to that part of the container list.

Processing Information

Three record cartons (boxes 84, 85 and 86) of additional files for the Dean's Office, Alumni and Development, and Publication series, as well as a new series of audio-visual materials were added to the collection in June 2022 by Jocelyn Wilk.

Conditions Governing Use

Gloves must be worn while handling photographic prints and negatives in the collection. All audiovisual materials must be digitized before use.

Social Agency Collection: A collection of social work agencies' professional publications, gathered and organized by the staff of the Social Work Library, circa 1934-1980. At Lehman Library, Columbia University.

Separated Materials

Five record cartons' worth of records containing extensive student or employee records, which fall outside of the University Archives' collecting policies, were discarded. These materials include routine lists of students with failing grades, students on academic probation, and writing samples submitted with applications for doctoral study. Resumes and curriculum vitae submitted by prospective faculty and staff members were also discarded. An additional box primarily composed of minutes of the Committee on Advanced Programs, with a few more folders of various Ad Hoc committee minutes, was found to be mold-contaminated. The committee minutes were primarily composed of student records and other records of low research value. They were discarded.

Separated Materials

Two manuscript boxes of material labeled "Ginsberg Papers" were separated from the records of the Office of Development and Alumni Relations and added to the Mitchell Ginsberg Papers.

Separated Materials

One manuscript box of Marion Kenworthy's correspondence with the School of Social Work, primarily related to her fundraising activities for the endowed Marion E. Kenworthy Chair in Psychiatry, were separated from the records of the Office of the Dean and added to the Marion E. Kenworthy Papers.

Separated Materials

Box 83 contains materials originally located in Box 1, Box 29, Box 43, Box 62, Box 69, and Box 73. These folders were separated from their original locations for mold remediation.

Series II: Office of Development and Alumni Relations, 1898-2012

Scope and Contents

Series II: Office of Development and Alumni Relations contains records primarily related to the alumni association's annual activities and fundraising work on behalf of the School of Social Work. The bulk of the collection's photographs are located in this series. Series II includes portrait files for school faculty, administrators, and Alumni Association leadership, as well as extensive photographic documentation of Association events circa 1970s-2000s. Earlier photographs, primarily portraits of faculty and administrators, appear to have been gathered for the School of Social Work's 1998 Centennial celebration.

Scope and Contents

Series II also includes some minutes of the School of Social Work Advisory Council dating from the 1980s and 1990s. Earlier Advisory Council minutes were found among the records kept by the Office of the Dean and retained in Series I. The reason for the division in custody is unclear.

Series III: Social Work Library, 1898-1982

Scope and Contents

Records in Series III: Social Work Library are a mixture of printed ephemera kept by librarians as reference materials for students; administrative records of the Social Work Library, dating from circa 1970s-1990s; and librarians' various attempts to gather historical "archives" of the school and library. Some school historical records in this series were gathered by the librarian Celestine Tutt, whose doctoral dissertation concerned the history of the Social Work Library. A small amount of material in the series also documents the Social Work Library's participation in an internship program administered by the Columbia University School of Library Service in the 1970s.

Series IV: Publications, 1904-2013

Scope and Contents

Series IV: Publications includes course bulletins, promotional materials, newsletters, event programs, and other printed material generated by the School of Social Work. Many of these materials were retained and used by various entities within the school. For example, both the Office of the Dean and the Office of Development and Alumni Relations kept reference collections of course bulletins and annual reports. For ease of access, those publications were placed in Series IV, unless they were heavily annotated or otherwise more informative in their original context.
